INTRODUCTION

Holism

According to the Explanatory Dictionary, “holism” is a concept which refers to the fact that the whole cannot be reduced to the sum of its parts and there actually is an integrating factor of the world, an immaterial and unknowable principle, so says modern science. In other words, holism states that there is a binder interconnecting everything in the Universe and this basis for everything that manifests is not manifested (immaterial), it is the only one capable of consciousness, the only one apt to establish equilibrium in the Universe. Therefore, this point of view implies the existence of an unseen basis that can explain every manifestation of the Universe, namely a Divine Consciousness.

Maybe the most apparent and the easiest way to understand this concept is the medical field. Yet this point of view is part of everything we experience and we are certain that, once accepted, it will create the possibility for any human being to be able to see these holistic implications and correlations in any field, and thus be able to attain their preordained condition; that of HUMAN BEING.

Allopathic medicine is founded on the premises that the human system is pure, microbe and virus free, and when the human being comes into contact with an outside contamination source, the pathogens enter the body. Allopathic medicine counteracts these aggressions by using several chemical substances (poisons) that kill the aggressors. In other words, if a symptom appears in one part of the body, allopathic medicine sees it as chemical modification that needs to be adequately treated with medicines in order to annihilate the effects. If a patient has a headache, for example, the doctor prescribes an anti-neuralgic; the same medicine is prescribed to every patient experiencing a headache. If an infection occurs, the doctor prescribes an antibiotic drug. Clearly, headaches can have different causes in different patients (catching a cold, feeling hungry, an infection in the body, bile calculus etc.). The treatment is the same. We are so used to this allopathic system that when one sees a doctor one only talks about effects: I have a terrible headache or I have a fever! But these are not diseases! If you say I have a sore throat or I have a fever, the doctor will prescribe an antibiotic without thinking twice!

Real poisons for the human body

A statistic research conducted on people with very serious diseases – such as cancer, AIDS, Alzheimer, syphilis – who died because of this, revealed a strange aspect: all of the patients had had a long history of increasingly more severe diseases for which they had been treated allopathically. For example, one patient had had a simple yeast infection and received an allopathic treatment. Later, he developed trichomoniasis which was treated the same way. Then he had herpes, papilloma – also treated allopathically – and, in the end, syphilis or prostate cancer. All is proof that this approach does not solve the problem but rather moves it to a more complex level, much more difficult to treat. This is the reason why all allopathic medicines have side effects, even the most common ones, such as aspirin, while the most powerful ones are actually poisonous. To say nothing of vaccines, which cause real hurricanes, destructive to the human system. Let us take cytostatics as an example, the so-called chemotherapy used in the allopathic treatment of cancer.

All oncologists who have prescribed cytostatics know that they are very powerful poisons (some were even used as poison gas during wars). They are in no way a remedy but a biologically selective poison, killing cells with a high reproduction rate, therefore killing cancer cells, but also other cells, such as nail and hair cells, and mainly white cells, the guardians of the physical body, that have an extremely high reproduction rate. This is why, before prescribing a dose of cytostatics, the doctor first performs a leucograma, because otherwise he runs the risk of his patient dying very fast. Any allopathic doctor knows that a patient undergoing chemotherapy engages on a sure road to death. No patient can bear more than 20 complete doses of cytostatics. All the doctor can say under such circumstances is that the patient will surely die in two years' time (leucocytes have a reconstruction rate of three weeks, while doses of cytostatics are given about once a month). On the other hand, many patients refused the chemotherapy and lived for over 20 years with a tumor in their body – in other words, one can expect to live longer refusing chemotherapy.

What most of us do not know...

What few people know is the financial side behind all these drugs. A dose of cytostatics costs almost 1 000 dollars, but the patient is not aware of this because health insurance pays for it. Consider that, in Europe alone, three million people who have completed chemotherapy die every year. Then think about the huge financial interest behind this whole drug industry, the second most profitable in the world after the weapon industry. The truth is, modern medicine has become an excellent business with huge returns and doctors are now dealers for the big pharmaceutical companies.

Therefore, allopathic medicine does not aim to cure anything even if it could – which it can't. One of the main branches in contemporary medicine is pathology – the study of disease. Nobody talks about health and wellness, all they talk about is the study of disease. Yet, when you want to become a millionaire you do shouldn't study the poor but find out what those who managed to become millionaires have done. The same applies when your goal is to be a champion: you must study real champions. In other words, allopathic medicine is not about health but rather about patching up.

The drugs used by allopathic medicine can be classified into seven big categories. The World Health Organization (WHO) issued the following declaration: "As there are only seven classes of drugs, 200 types of remedies could encompass the entire range of effects and would be enough to treat all diseases". With over 10 000 specialties in each country, member of the European Union, it's as if we were using a nuclear bomb to kill a fly.

Allopathic medicine has become what it is today, as a result of the different classes of drugs that have been developed by the pharmaceutical industry over the last 50 years. These seven classes, which represent the top instruments allopathic medicine has in fighting a large number of diseases, are its pride and joy, the reason for its existence. Without these drugs, allopathic medicine would have succumbed to less aggressive medical care systems a long time ago. For this it has to thank the pharmaceutical laboratories, without which there wouldn't be allopathic medicine today. There is a strong interdependence between allopathic doctors and the magnates of the pharmaceutical industry – the former could not live without the latter and vice versa.

Here are the seven classes of drugs:

- 1) antibiotics;
- 2) anti-inflammatories and analgesics;
- 3) antihypertensives;
- 4) hypocholesterolemic;
- 5) antidepressants and tranquilizers;
- 6) anticarcinogens;
- 7) vaccines (bringing antigens into the body).

As you can see, all these drugs are “anti” something. Nothing is “pro”; except for tranquilizers, there is no drug to aim for health. They represent a practical application of Pasteur’s irrational theory. Instead of striving to preserve man’s physical and mental integrity by using natural means and prescribing trace elements, vitamins, minerals etc., recommending a balanced diet and advising a healthy lifestyle, allopathic medicine causes imbalances, forcing you to turn to allopathic doctors to prescribe one of the drugs out of the six classes mentioned above (six, as vaccines are prescribed for prevention).

When a disease occurs, it means an intruder has entered the body and this intruder must be hunted down. It sounds more like magic than real medical science. The allopathic doctor may very well be seen as an exorcist who, in order to drive evil out of a person, uses weird formulas and extremely aggressive techniques: powerful drugs, chemotherapy, radical surgical interventions and so on. Wanting to destroy evil they end up killing the patient.

Have faith – not in prescription drugs, but in the vital force

A holistic approach, on the other hand, is completely different. Holistic medicine is not about doctors and drugs. Holistic medicine postulates that in each and every patient there is a harmonizing intelligence (vital force) and this intelligence is the only one capable of knowing the cause of the illness, how long it will take to cure it, and in what way exactly the human body will regain balance. All a doctor can do is to recognize the symptoms of awakening this vital force while the remedies he prescribes are not to fight any effects but to amplify this force and reinstall health.

Once awoken, the vital force discharges the garbage (the illness) outside of the body and all the subject has to do is be patient and act in the same direction as the force. A mental disorder treated this way can manifest itself by symptoms in the lungs (for example, a case of autism treated allopathically can at first manifest itself as chronic bronchitis or severe asthma). If the patient treats the effects manifested in the lungs (in holistic terminology, this blocking of effects is called suppression), the disease can reappear at the mental level.

We must keep in mind that holism, compared to other approaches, is based on that immaterial and unknowable principle which, scientifically speaking (from modern science's point of view) is a purely subjective aspect. This approach also requires great courage, especially when considered modern materialistic thinking.

As a matter of fact, one needs to have faith in this force's inherent intelligence. The truth is, the human mind is only able to control a limited number of processes, while many other processes escape our conscious mind. For example, who consciously thinks about digestion taking place (besides while reading this phrase)? Or who is conscious of the way oxygen diffuses into the bloodstream from the lungs? All these processes are controlled by this vital force in a perfect way. Diseases occur when we do not allow this force to work properly but act against it.

This holistic approach asks for a transformation similar to launching into the void, since its fundamental principle is a purely subjective one – the force residing in each of us, a force that sustains us and always tries to recover our balance by any means.

We think we do and achieve great things, but actually it is this force that does it all, this force we are not even aware of. All we have to do is be humble enough to recognize its merits and let go of the control so it can act freely – this is real courage.

All great discoveries of mankind have been made due to this force. Mendeleev discovered the periodic table during a dream. Einstein discovered the theory of relativity daydreaming what it would be like to fly riding a beam of light. Edison said all his ideas came to him while in a state of light sleep. Tesla used to fall into reveries during which he envisioned all his discoveries. And the list goes on. The truth is all these discoveries were made by people who had the courage to unleash this force.

This force's intention is to make us conscious, but only if we allow it. We should understand that spirituality, as a whole, is based on perceiving and being aware of this force.

Health is closely connected to spiritual evolution

As a matter of fact, we have emphasized the holistic approach on health exactly because of its close connection to spirituality. But what is spirituality? What does being spiritual mean? (We ask this because health is strongly connected with the level of spiritual evolution; if all people understood that, mankind would take a huge step towards peace and harmony.)

If we were to judge things according to Christian thinking (all genuine traditions have the same ultimate aim), John's Gospel begins with the following: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God". Therefore, in the beginning there was nothing but the word, that is God, and from God (this Unique Principle) all manifestation came into being, because there was nothing but God. That means all manifestation is actually God manifested, the entire Universe being the celestial body of God. Thus God is not only a non manifested aspect, somewhere in the outside world, but everything manifested; matter is God too, as nothing but God existed in the beginning and nothing else exists now. All a human being has to do in order to be spiritual is be aware of this permanent presence of God.

For a holistic approach we have to state our goal properly, because our subconscious mind will lead us towards fulfilling that goal. A holistic approach is monistic, because there exists nothing but God. In fact, all authentic holistic medicines are also called UNICIST. This is really the greatest difference between allopathy and holism: allopathy asserts the will and knowledge egotistically and arbitrarily from the outside – the doctor knows best and prescribes a chemical to annihilate the existing disorder; holism states that any disturbance in the being is an effort of the “vital force” (Unique Principle) to reestablish balance. All the doctor has to do is observe the direction this “vital force” is leading towards and stimulate the system to follow that direction, as that is the right way towards balance and health.

In other words, holism is a “medicine” that believes and has faith in this Unique Principle (God), while allopathy does not even think about it.

The Austrian mystic Jakob Lorber (1800 – 1864), nicknamed “the scribe of God”, wrote over 25 books by listening to his inner voice, a work of which scientists say it exceeds the possibilities of the human mind. Lorber stated that all he wrote had been dictated by Jesus. When he was 40, he heard an inner voice telling him: "Take up your pen and write!". That was the voice of Jesus and everything Lorber wrote is advice Jesus gave to his readers. It is relevant how Lorber regards healing and health:

"Unfortunately, many patients are dying nowadays because of allopathic drugs, which cure an evil but replace it with a dozen other evils inside the afflicted body. Moreover, the new diseases become more and more virulent, therefore it is no wonder that life expectancy is rapidly declining, becoming shorter and shorter, which can only debilitate the descendants of those who are now parents. If this material decline goes on, it will lead to the total destruction of mankind. Therefore, out of compassion, I chose to enlighten a few people who created other means of healing, means that do not destroy the material body but rather act upon the soul. Thus, by awakening the power of the soul, these remedies can restore balance in the physical system. This healing method is called homeopathy (homeopathy is a holistic medicine – editor's note) or, as I like to call it, 'the art of healing with the soul'. This time the one who performs healing is the soul, activated by means of several infinitesimal agents that would be toxic if used in big doses. How can this happen? Simply, as in My nature there is nothing harmful”.

All the research we conduct and all the devices we create, aim at this holistic integration and intent to develop and amplify this force holism calls vital force. They are meant to awaken and stimulate this force and, somehow, the fact that they restore balance and perform healing comes as a natural consequence. All the instruments we devise amplify the natural tendencies of this vital force. Every indication regarding the healing effects comes from practice, from the experience of those who have used them. We do not say a certain device cures this or that disease, all we aim for is awakening the vital force. The effects produced depend largely on the mindset of the user. The fact is when this vital force awakens the effects are nothing but beneficial. For one thing, our devices produce a spiritual awakening in the persons using them and, by all means, the active principles of the healing effects are not physical, but spiritual influences.

Furthermore, these devices agree with any other kind of treatment (including allopathy – although allopathy can block the manifestation of many positive effects) and can be used together with any type of cure.

The effects of our devices are very much amplified if the user leads a healthy lifestyle and practices rightful thinking. You can access our site where you will find more information on this topic.

Rediscovering the past

It is a well known fact that our civilisation is not the only one that has existed on this planet since the appearance of man. Archaeological discoveries of vestiges and ancient writings prove that our civilisation was preceded by far more advanced ones. Thus, "Vaimānika Śāstra", a text discovered in India, describes in detail flying machines heavier than air, with magnetical and gravitational propulsion thousands of years before the first flight performed by the Wright brothers. The pyramids of Egypt still amaze us with the greatness and accuracy of their construction. There are also legends about a famous substance able to soften the rocks used by Maya civilisation to build perfectly fitting stone walls, an amazing thing even for today's engineers. There certainly are many "wonders" of the past, but some were completely lost, some are regarded with suspicion by modern science while others, such as the device you have just bought, were revealed by clairvoyant people who "read them" in the Akashic records (a region in the subtle plane where the past is recorded).

Health is man's most precious asset, essential for a life full of achievement and satisfaction. Therefore it seems natural that huge sums of money are being spent worldwide, in order to track down, investigate and treat each and every disease. Science has advanced enormously, building sensitive and complex devices to thoroughly investigate the human body; there are synthetic drugs, the result of great efforts, capable of producing distinct effects with the aim of removing a certain health disorder. Nevertheless, notwithstanding current developments in science and technology, we could say that allopathic medicine has failed in its "fight" against the big problems affecting human health. The main reason is this medicine has essentially aimed at curing the disease rather than maintaining a state of perfect health, not considering the harmony of the whole manifested in any human being, at every level: physical, energetic, emotional, mental and spiritual. In this regard, a health problem is not only what we see at the physical level, a disease or a temporary incapacity of a certain organ to function properly, it is also a disturbance in the balance of the whole mind-body system. Moreover, the excessive materialism of science has generated a real hunt for viruses, bacteria and other microscopic inhabitants and material substances, responsible, they say, for causing disease in the human body. One should remember though that with each breath we take in myriads of such elements into our body but only when there is an imbalance in the body can they install and proliferate inside, with all the unpleasant effects.

Therefore, an ideal drug would be one capable to restore the harmony of a disturbed system or to reinforce the balance already existing in the body without any damage whatsoever. This does not apply to modern treatment procedures. Modern treatment has a great many side effects and it has never been applied to a healthy body.

Investigating the treasures of the past, we find many such ideal “medicines”, often coming as natural remedies, advices for a balanced life style and even devices able to connect the users to subtle energies according to their specific needs. It seems that the priests in ancient esoteric schools of Tibet, Egypt and the Inca civilization, had extraordinary techniques to rejuvenate the mind, body and memory. In museums worldwide there are many mysterious devices considered to have miraculous powers to regenerate the human body. Most are ceremonial objects: carbon or magnetite rods, unknown alloys of gold, silver, quartz crystals. These objects, amazingly simple to the complicated mind of nowadays researchers, operate on principles that have nothing to do with the fundamentals of modern science: they apply interdisciplinary laws, such as resonance and synergy.

We should note that these devices are nothing but a physical illustration of a process that is mostly subtle, so that they interact with the body on an energy level. Nowadays, holistic therapeutic procedures of ancient civilizations are once again investigated and applied, but only to compensate for the disadvantages of classical medicine.

The psychic Edgar Cayce recommended the bio-battery as a miraculous device

One device that has widely been appreciated is the bio-battery, revealed to modern times by the readings from the American psychic Edgar Cayce. While in trance, Cayce performed over 14 000 readings on more than 10 000 subjects, many of them related to human health. Information on the bio-battery can be found in 1 027 of his readings; Cayce recommends it for curing over 115 diseases. This device is described in highly favorable terms:

“Everyone should use this device”, “It is excellent for regenerating the organism” – and so on.

Cayce named the energy accumulated by this device “etheronic”. Here is how Cayce describes the operating principle of the bio-battery in his reading: “The device works as a generating magnet – on every connection with the physical body a subtle energetic flow is generated, a flow vibrating on the vibration frequency of the body itself; it is a magnet that accumulates energy”. (1179-3)

“The vibrations of the device are the lowest form of electrical forces that move as energies from the etheronic energies – or of the lowest form of static, or the electrical forces.” (681-2)

“The lowest form of electrical vibration IS the basis of life itself [the prime cause, the Logos].” (444-2)

[...] their constructive forces are in an orderly manner. This enables the quieting, then, from within, and allows the forces that are constructive to the system’s vitality to become predominant. [...] (this device) absorbs the energies in certain regions of the body, amplifies them and reintroduces electrical energies into the body that revitalize those regions in the body, where these energies are lacking.” (957-3)

“It keeps the body in balance.” (2836-2)

“[...] as it strengthens the vibrations (of the body) [...] the device takes over the user’s vibrations.” (5158-1)

From the above passages (the device wasn’t described in one single reading, information on its structure and operating principles can be found in several studies, as we have already mentioned) it can be concluded that the bio-battery consists of a very powerful energy amplifier that can get in tune with the vibration frequencies of the users’ subtle energetic bodies, regenerating their vital energy.

Accordingly, Cayce insists that the device be used by one single person: “Each person should have a device of their own. Make sure that no other body uses your device”. (260-2)

The experiments we have performed show that when a person uses the device several days in a row the carbon powders inside the bio-battery form a network of conglomerations (knots) depending on the energetic field of that person.

Nevertheless, it can be used by several persons on condition that after being used for some time by one person the device is “reset” by placing it the sunrays for some time (two or three hours of continuous exposure on a sunny day). We should mention that this exposure has to be direct, not through glass. Furthermore, we know from experience that the efficiency of a “reset” device is lower.

What is BIO SYNERGY?

BIO SYNERGY is a bioenergetic battery (it uses the body’s energetic potential and does not need an external source to activate) that allows the regeneration of the human organism due to the resonance phenomena occurring between the body connected to the battery and the solution inside of it.

This bio-battery is manufactured according to the revelations Edgar Cayce had during his trances and is based on discoveries made by scientists who studied Inca civilization (Inca temples) and on descriptions of similar principles found in ancient Eastern texts. The whole assembly is introduced in resin, to protect it against shock and humidity. The device has two terminals on its upper side and a recipient (inside the battery and tight fitting) containing the gold solution to work with.

BIO SYNERGY also has two bracelets: one for the wrist and one for the ankle. These bracelets are made of silver threads, are anti allergenic, elastic and very durable. They must be connected to the two terminals to close the electrical circuit formed by the bio-battery and the human body. It has no importance to which terminal each bracelet is connected. The benefic action of the bio-battery is at its best when used with two cooling accumulators placed on both sides of the battery.

BIO SYNERGY, the AimGroup bio-battery, combines the advantages offered by the energy accumulation and synergy process facilitated by carbon and the organic energy accumulation. Due to the specific construction of the battery walls, an organic field is generated inside, which amplifies the transmission of information in the body through the electrodes and the terminal wires. Furthermore, the materials used and the source element have been improved so to optimize the efficiency of the device. This means more vital energy for the body.

The synergy principle

This device operates on an ancient principle that has thoroughly been studied as of late: the principle of resonance. Empirically, this principle states that there is a transfer of energy between two systems oscillating on similar frequencies, which functions at its highest when these systems are vibrating on the same frequency. The transfer of energy takes place without a transfer of substance. As scientists consider the world is an assembly of vibrational systems one within another and every thing in the Universe is in fact energy in a particular state of vibration, we begin to understand the tremendous importance the resonance process has in life, both at microcosmic and macrocosmic levels.

More specifically, the operation of BIO SYNERGY is based on a phenomenon called synergy. This phenomenon is the materialization of certain energies out of the ether (the subtle element called "ether") by the agency of resonance, starting from a "seed"-energy. Practically, this device generates a process in the human body in which golden elements transposition to the cellular level. Thus, the concentration of gold in the human body increases in a natural way. In the same way, by changing the "seed"-energy, we can obtain resonances with any metal

(by changing the solution in the recipient). However, we do not advise using other solutions: gold is a universal remedy with no side effects, while other solutions can generate undesired effects. This is why the recipient containing the monoatomic gold solution is enclosed in the device and sealed within the resin in which the whole block is cast.

The research done by Etienne Guillé, a brilliant scientist, shows that DNA's primary base sequencing (particular proteins: cytosine, adenine, thymine and guanine) creates the resonance of the human body with various metals. In other words, if these bases come in one particular order, the body begins to produce copper; if they appear in a different order, the body will produce gold – and so on. The human body is able to produce any metal for its own use, depending on how the sequences of these proteins are structured in the DNA. The metals our body produces for its own need are different than those we find in nature as minerals.

They are living, have a spiral structure and long chains just like organic molecules (scientists state this metals are protein chains that simulate mineral metals). Furthermore, the body rejects any attempt at being given metals in a mineral form. It is ridiculous to think that if you have a lack of calcium and start ingesting calcium you will compensate for the deficiency. The truth is by doing that you can do much harm to your body.

Revitalize your body and alleviate the fluctuations of your mind

BIO SYNERGY transmits information to a very deep level, while the DNA structures its sequences so that the body begins to produce its own metals. Therefore, this device acts as an energy amplifier of one's body vibrations. Its main effects are revitalizing the body and alleviating the fluctuations of the mind. According to Cayce, "the device brings rest to those who are tired, to those who have gone through a long period of stress and exhaustion, to those who are looking for a harmonizing influence to help them achieve coordination between their physical, mental and spiritual disposition, so that the latter has an effect on one's physical body. The device will bring sleep to the body – any annoyance will disappear". In addition, "the device can improve the functioning of the eyes, hearing and throat in times of a cold and congestion. It can help eliminate anxiety, improves the body's ability to calm down, increases blood circulation and uniformly distributes the heating forces all over the body. It purifies the blood and creates a better coordination in the functioning of cerebrospinal and sympathetic systems. It is indispensable for all those who are working a lot with the brain, but also to those who do not use it enough. When using the device, the meditative forces sustaining the body's focusing will be activated and become much more useful, so that the person is able to find more and more opportunities to express what has been obtained. The days of using the device will be labeled as lucky ones, so to speak, or periods of greater connection to one's creative forces".

Cayce states that by the fourth week of using the device, there has to be a definite change in the body's well being. As long as it is maintained properly, that is in a clean state, and the two electrodes do not short-circuit, the device will work indefinitely.

Vibrations of metals in the human body

Because the bio-battery operates as an amplifier, it can increase bodily vibrations as well as other types of vibrations, such as the subtle vibrations of various metals. Metals are the materialization of certain subtle energies in the terrestrial body, energies related to the whole planetary system. Occultism mentions the so-called planetary metals as being the condensation of the seven main planet' energies (including the Sun) in the terrestrial sphere. Thus, Saturn corresponds to lead, Jupiter to tin, Mars to iron, the Sun to gold, Venus to copper, Mercury to mercury and the Moon to silver. The respective metals are nothing but a solidified form of these planetary energies. The human body needs these energies as it is an integral part of the whole and cannot exist separately. Man's life is in close connection with cosmic, planetary life and each of these metals corresponds to a certain physiological function. For example, respiratory functions representing our formative and creative life correspond to iron (Rudolf Steiner). Equally, the life of the circulatory system, the fundamental source of life, gets its impulses through energies spread by gold. The metabolism which is the fundament of material organs is governed by energies corresponding to copper, while any movement of the body is a result of the influence in the ethereal body of energies ascribed to mercury. Reproduction, regeneration, rejuvenation are energies belonging to silver. The nerves are a continuation of the life of the senses influenced by energies materialized as tin, while the energies ascribed to lead are those heavy energies governing the senses.

As we have already mentioned, our body needs these energies, but this does not mean we can simply ingest the corresponding metals. As a matter of fact, ingesting these metals as they are found in nature can have fatal consequences for the human being because in this form their energies are much too coarse to be absorbed by the human system, therefore they are rejected. As spiritual writings state, man is a microcosmos, a microuniverse, in other words all the energies of the Universe are reflected in the human being. Accordingly, the human body should contain all metals. Nevertheless, these metals have a particular structure. Their atoms are arranged into clusters (groups made up of several atoms) as big as an organic molecule. Metals in the body have an organic structure, some scientists even say they are living things. Therefore, they have a structure completely different from metals obtained by mineral extraction – as such, it is no wonder that when trying to compensate for the deficiency of a certain metal in our body by ingesting that metal, our bodies reject it. It is as if we tried to make a transplant using an incompatible organ.

One of the commonest examples is calcium. A lack of calcium generates extremely unpleasant effects in the body and the doctor treats that by prescribing calcium. This does not work, since some people will have calcium deficiency as long as they live. There is plenty of calcium in nature, even in the water we drink, that is why deposits will form on the walls of the recipient when we boil water: these deposits are in fact calcium salts.

But then, what can we do to make our body accept a metal? The answer is very simple: we can do nothing to make our body accept a metal from the outside. All we can do is to stimulate the body to produce the metal we want to amplify in structure on its own. We use the word “amplify” as we are dealing with a certain energy that has to be activated in the system, an energy which in its coarse form is embodied by the metal in question.

BIO SYNERGY operates by transmitting extremely fine information to the human body. Because of the way this information is transmitted, it reaches DNA and this DNA will structure in such a way that the body begins to produce gold.

(We must say that this information does not generate a change in the DNA, no new sequences will appear, what happens is that a certain sequence, already existing in our DNA, will be stimulated.)

Under certain conditions, for example in other times when people had a different life style, or when spiritual development reaches higher levels, the human body starts to produce the gold it needs – in the Inca temples mummies were discovered with a gold layer on the inside of their skulls, a layer that had deposited there during their lifetime. In other words, the amount of gold in their bodies was so large that a gold layer deposited on the inside of their skulls. Spiritual traditions often mention the amazing influences gold has on the energy centers in the head area. What spiritual experiences did these people have, what level of consciousness, how did they see the Universe, what latent capacities were awakened at that time? Such questions have stimulated us to create this device.

The source where the resonance is produced and the information is transmitted to the human structure, is a sample of colloidal¹ gold solution. The body starts to produce its own gold, organic gold, which will no longer be rejected because it is part of the body. Furthermore, this manner of transmitting the information does not generate any side effects as the energy corresponding to gold is harmonized in the structure. Moreover, there is no risk of producing gold in excess, only as much as is needed to harmonize the body.

Physically speaking, things will become obvious in a matter of weeks; as a rule, the amount of gold in the human body is indistinguishable – in other words, there is so little gold in our body that it cannot be detected. After using BIO SYNERGY for a few weeks, the gold in the body can be traced.

Gold and its properties

Why gold?

In traditions worldwide gold was considered the most noble of all metals, the most powerful remedy, the best of the best.

Ancient civilizations say all metals can be obtained from gold through a process of impurifying. Therefore, gold is the source for all energies corresponding to other metals, so if gold is present in the body, all other metals will harmonize.

Recent research shows that gold operates mainly in the head area, especially in the pineal and hypophysis glands, which govern the whole endocrine system.

In spiritual writings, gold is associated with the highest force center in the human structure, situated in the crown, the top of the head. Cayce says this device acts mainly at brain level and is capable of generating a completely new brain if the old one is too deteriorated to regenerate. Moreover, he recommends it for all degenerative diseases and states it reverses the aging process and doubles life expectancy.

Gold is a carrier for solar energy and reflects this principle in the terrestrial sphere. It is a royal metal which preserves and radiates this nature that cannot be attacked by other energies. Solar energy is the primary source of light and heat, therefore the source of life itself. The presence of gold in the human body, definitely in infinitesimal quantities (such as, from a certain point of view, we could say that only its subtle vibration is manifested in the bodies of mankind), influences cell growth and division, regulates sedimentation rate, stops blood coagulation, activates the reticulo-endothelial system, promotes oxidation, stimulates the adrenocorticotropic principle and coordinates the activity of the neurovegetative system. Its vibrations run through the whole body, reuniting all polarities and maintaining a balance between all forces. At a physical level, its action is best seen in the cardiovascular system, where it governs the rhythmic alternation between contraction and relaxation of the heart (systole – diastole) and of all blood vessels, inferring a balance of polarities in hematopoiesis, whose processes it fosters. Furthermore, it plays a part in all bone marrow reconstruction, regeneration and formation processes.

On the ethereal body level, the vibrations of gold invigorate the vital systems and act as an agent in lymphatic and glandular processes.

With regards to man's astral structure, the vibrations of this metal brighten emotions and amplify all the qualities of the soul, while on a spiritual level they regulate heat or expression of the Self. Gold turns blood into a carrier substance for the spirit.

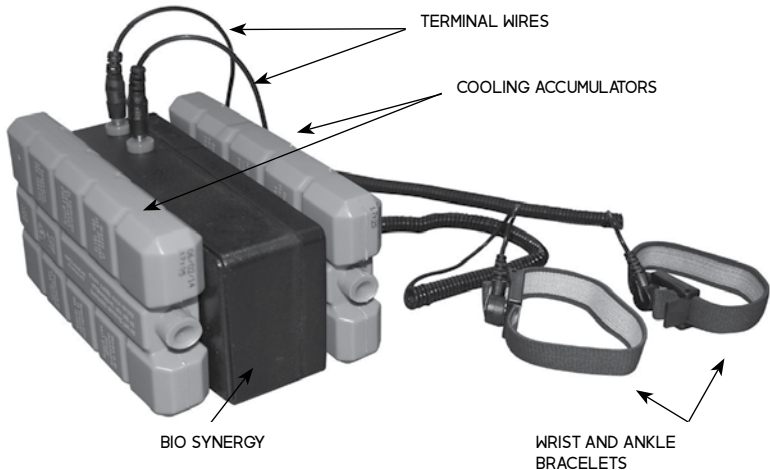

Here are the main organs, systems, aspects and processes influenced by gold:

- vital force;
- active blood circulation;
- accurate hematopoiesis;
- normal coagulation;
- regular heartbeat;
- normal blood pressure;
- normal cardiovascular system;
- proper functioning of reticulo-endothelial system;
- proper functioning of immune system;
- metabolism and limbs;
- membrane vascularization;
- digestive system;
- liver;
- renal system;
- lymphatic, mammary, thyroid and pancreas glands;
- locomotor system;
- muscles;
- joints;
- skeletal system;
- neurosensory system and the skin;
- brain;
- nerves;
- eyes;
- ears;
- solar psychic faculties;

- solar type, soul man;
 - self-knowledge;
 - a sense of truth;
 - clarity;
 - positive thinking;
 - idealism;
 - enthusiasm;
 - character qualities;
 - joy of living;
- courage;
 - warmth, generosity;
 - orderly, measured action, performed with joy;
 - creative, prompt way of acting;
 - positive action in all mental disorders of cardiac origin.

How to use the device

BIO SYNERGY is a device designed to be used individually. It can be used by ONE PERSON alone! When used, the carbon powders structure themselves according to the vibrations of that specific person; if someone else uses the device, not only will it remain resultless, but it can also affect the efficiency for the person the device was initially tuned for!

BIO SYNERGY is delivered with a gold solution inside it. This solution is not consumable, it serves only as a source for transmitting information, has been made using specific methods and is very stable, so that the battery will last indefinitely.

The two accumulators are placed on both sides of the device and, to increase the grip, are fastened with the rubber band coming with the battery.

BIO SYNERGY can also work without the cooling accumulators, but its efficiency will be lower.

WARNING!

The terminals should not be short-circuited by touching one bracelet to the other (the conducting elements, the grey fabric woven with silver threads) or else the device will no longer work properly. Nevertheless, if this happens, the device must be placed in the sunshine for at least two hours in order to return to the initial parameters.

Ten minutes after fastening the cooling accumulators (a period necessary for a threshold to trigger inside the device), you will connect the bracelet to the terminals.

Then put the bracelets on the ankle and wrist. The cooling accumulators will remain attached to the battery during the session.

Take a comfortable posture and relax; in the meantime you can either read a book, listen to music or sleep.

Sessions should be performed for at least 30 minutes. A prolonged session has no negative effects on the organism.

The process is a holistic one, the vital force re-establishes balance in the body and the gold level is regulated so that the body can function at its best.

It does not matter to which terminal you connect each bracelet. The bracelets have to be connected left hand – right foot or right hand – left foot.

After each session you have to change the diagonal orientation: if in one session you have used it connected left hand – right foot, in the next session you should use it with a right hand – left foot connection – and so on.

For powerful effects, we recommend you use the device at least half an hour each day. You can also use it for longer periods of time, there is no restriction, you can even have several sessions a day. The important thing is for these sessions to be performed on a daily basis. If, for whatever reason, you take a break for a day or two, you can start using BIO SYNERGY again and the effects will stay. After using it for two or three months, the effects will stay with you for years. Even if you use it permanently you will benefit and there is no contraindication to use it for as long as you wish.

Furthermore, the effects of the bio-battery will be amplified if its temperature is lower, therefore we recommend to use it along with the cooling accumulators.

You can use BIO SYNERGY any time you take a break. Just lie down in a comfortable position and connect the bracelets the way we have mentioned. Meanwhile, you can perform gentle intellectual activities such as reading a book. Cayce states that when using the bio-battery, it is an appropriate time to plan our life, to get answers to our basic questions or to review the relationship we have with God. In his readings, Cayce recommends connecting the device at night, when we go to bed, and disconnect it in the morning, when we wake up. He says that after some time of using the device we can have significant dreams and develop a higher self-knowledge as our subconscious mind is activated.

During the entire time of using the bio-battery, you should have a mental attitude full of benevolence, with no negative manifestations, as Cayce says: "You cannot use the device and swear or vow at the same time. You shouldn't manifest hate – your nervous system will act as a boomerang against you".

Although there are no contraindications for using the device, we recommend you to abstain from tranquilizers or alcohol while having sessions with the bio-battery.

So far there haven't been any documented side effects from using this device.

BIO SYNERGY effects

This battery was first examined by the Association for Research and Enlightenment (ARE) in Virginia Beach, which applies the knowledge revealed by Cayce, and the results they obtained were amazing.

This device proved to be extremely effective in:

- restoring memory;
- curing senility;
- detoxification;
- stress reduction;
- high blood pressure;
- deafness;
- obesity.

This device has also contributed to the healing of other serious diseases: cancer, arthritis and certain forms of paralysis.

Edgar Cayce personally insisted on the importance of this device. He considered it to be superior to any other method and stated that it doubles life expectancy.

His writings go on to state the benefits and the rejuvenating properties of this device: "it aids the body in every direction", "it is a necessity for anyone who uses the brain a great deal", "it is good for anyone", "any organism experiencing problems due to lack of harmony can benefit from using this device", "this type of vibration is beneficial to every human being".

The accumulation of energy with this bio-battery is intense. Sensitive persons describe a powerful energy field emanating from the terminal wires of the device that sometimes expands beyond the ceiling of the room where the device is set.

As documented main effects, we mention the regeneration and improvement of memory functions. Under this category we have deficiencies such as:

- senility;
- mental degenerescence (later called Alzheimer disease);

- dementia;
- brain lesions or tumours;
- Down syndrome;
- mental handicaps;
- absence of cerebral coordination;
- certain forms of paralysis (not applying to destruction of nervous tissues).

“The memory is never lost”, Cayce stated. What we lose is the ability to retrieve memory. Clairvoyants say human beings that have lost access to their memory are like off-line telephone sets. The bio-energetic battery helps restoring communication and allows access to memory by stimulating the user’s vital energy.

In case of memory loss due to brain damage, old age senility or brain disease, the sessions with the battery can be associated with other traditional methods such as osteopathy for brain regeneration, as Cayce said. Cells in the body are incessantly renewed. With the bio-energetic battery this cell renewal occurs in total harmony. Weakened senses can thus be enhanced: hearing, sight and taste in elderly people. The bio-battery stabilizes and invigorates the body for a better coordination.

It is also known that injections with gold solutions are used in treating arthrosis. This type of treatment is done under strict supervision because of its high toxicity. With the bio-battery, the vibrations of gold are absorbed by the body with no transfer of substance, and therefore there is no risk of toxicity.

Package content

The full BIO SYNERGY package contains:

- the bioenergetic element containing the gold solution with the terminals for connecting the electrode bracelets;
- a bracelet for the ankle;
- a bracelet for the wrist;
- two cooling accumulators;
- user manual.

NOTE!

This device operates with no conventional electric sources and is perfectly safe, there is no risk of electrocution.

CAUTION!

The BIO SYNERGY's outer carcass makes the device easy to use and pleasing to the eye. It is not moisture-proof. Nevertheless, all components on the inside are impervious, as they are cast in a monoblock made up of a special resin.

Testimonials

V. O., physician, Paris He used BIO SYNERGY for a young woman who had serious problems adjusting balance when changing her position from horizontal to vertical. Practically, when she wanted to get up she lost her consciousness (she fainted) for 30 seconds. She had orthostatic hypertension caused by a stroke. She had been bedridden for a long time. After two days of using BIO SYNERGY, she no longer lost consciousness. After three days she was able to walk unassisted on a distance of 12 meters while her tension remained within normal limits.

A. T., Timisoara I have been using the battery for two weeks; the results have been amazing from the very first week! I sleep better than I have in the last nine years, my heart beat has returned to normal, I feel (and visualize!) a paradisiacal state of wellness!

A. B., Bacau, 89 years old, was in a coma because of a pervasive cancer with multiple metastases. The doctors estimated that the old man would die within two or three weeks. He was in a coma and they did not expect him to recover. Eventually they agreed to connect him to BIO SYNERGY. After the first 12 hours, he came out of coma and could talk. In a few days he was discharged from the hospital and over the next three months he gradually recovered. He was able to move, walk, talk etc. He died five years later, at age 94.
