INTRODUCTION

Holism

According to the Explanatory Dictionary, “holism” is a concept which refers to the fact that the whole cannot be reduced to the sum of its parts and there actually is an integrating factor of the world, an immaterial and unknowable principle, so says modern science. In other words, holism states that there is a binder interconnecting everything in the Universe and this basis for everything that manifests is not manifested (immaterial), it is the only one capable of consciousness, the only one apt to establish equilibrium in the Universe. Therefore, this point of view implies the existence of an unseen basis that can explain every manifestation of the Universe, namely a Divine Consciousness.

Maybe the most apparent and the easiest way to understand this concept is the medical field. Yet this point of view is part of everything we experience and we are certain that, once accepted, it will create the possibility for any human being to be able to see these holistic implications and correlations in any field, and thus be able to attain their preordained condition; that of HUMAN BEING.

Allopathic medicine is founded on the premises that the human system is pure, microbe and virus free, and when the human being comes into contact with an outside contamination source, the pathogens enter the body. Allopathic medicine counteracts these aggressions by using several chemical substances (poisons) that kill the aggressors. In other words, if a symptom appears in one part of the body, allopathic medicine sees it as chemical modification that needs to be adequately treated with medicines in order to annihilate the effects. If a patient has a headache, for example, the doctor prescribes an anti-neuralgic; the same medicine is prescribed to every patient experiencing a headache. If an infection occurs, the doctor prescribes an antibiotic drug. Clearly, headaches can have different causes in different patients (catching a cold, feeling hungry, an infection in the body, bile calculus etc.). The treatment is the same. We are so used to this allopathic system that when one sees a doctor one only talks about effects: I have a terrible headache or I have a fever! But these are not diseases! If you say I have a sore throat or I have a fever, the doctor will prescribe an antibiotic without thinking twice!

Real poisons for the human body

A statistic research conducted on people with very serious diseases – such as cancer, AIDS, Alzheimer, syphilis – who died because of this, revealed a strange aspect: all of the patients had had a long history of increasingly more severe diseases for which they had been treated allopathically. For example, one patient had had a simple yeast infection and received an allopathic treatment. Later, he developed trichomoniasis which was treated the same way. Then he had herpes, papilloma – also treated allopathically – and, in the end, syphilis or prostate cancer. All is proof that this approach does not solve the problem but rather moves it to a more complex level, much more difficult to treat. This is the reason why all allopathic medicines have side effects, even the most common ones, such as aspirin, while the most powerful ones are actually poisonous. To say nothing of vaccines, which cause real hurricanes, destructive to the human system. Let us take cytostatics as an example, the so-called chemotherapy used in the allopathic treatment of cancer.

All oncologists who have prescribed cytostatics know that they are very powerful poisons (some were even used as poison gas during wars). They are in no way a remedy but a biologically selective poison, killing cells with a high reproduction rate, therefore killing cancer cells, but also other cells, such as nail and hair cells, and mainly white cells, the guardians of the physical body, that have an extremely high reproduction rate. This is why, before prescribing a dose of cytostatics, the doctor first performs a leucograma, because otherwise he runs the risk of his patient dying very fast. Any allopathic doctor knows that a patient undergoing chemotherapy engages on a sure road to death. No patient can bear more than 20 complete doses of cytostatics. All the doctor can say under such circumstances is that the patient will surely die in two years' time (leucocytes have a reconstruction rate of three weeks, while doses of cytostatics are given about once a month). On the other hand, many patients refused the chemotherapy and lived for over 20 years with a tumor in their body – in other words, one can expect to live longer refusing chemotherapy.

What most of us do not know...

What few people know is the financial side behind all these drugs. A dose of cytostatics costs almost 1 000 dollars, but the patient is not aware of this because health insurance pays for it. Consider that, in Europe alone, three million people who have completed chemotherapy die every year. Then think about the huge financial interest behind this whole drug industry, the second most profitable in the world after the weapon industry. The truth is, modern medicine has become an excellent business with huge returns and doctors are now dealers for the big pharmaceutical companies.

Therefore, allopathic medicine does not aim to cure anything even if it could – which it can't. One of the main branches in contemporary medicine is pathology – the study of disease. Nobody talks about health and wellness, all they talk about is the study of disease. Yet, when you want to become a millionaire you do shouldn't study the poor but find out what those who managed to become millionaires have done. The same applies when your goal is to be a champion: you must study real champions. In other words, allopathic medicine is not about health but rather about patching up.

The drugs used by allopathic medicine can be classified into seven big categories. The World Health Organization (WHO) issued the following declaration: "As there are only seven classes of drugs, 200 types of remedies could encompass the entire range of effects and would be enough to treat all diseases". With over 10 000 specialties in each country, member of the European Union, it's as if we were using a nuclear bomb to kill a fly.

Allopathic medicine has become what it is today, as a result of the different classes of drugs that have been developed by the pharmaceutical industry over the last 50 years. These seven classes, which represent the top instruments allopathic medicine has in fighting a large number of diseases, are its pride and joy, the reason for its existence. Without these drugs, allopathic medicine would have succumbed to less aggressive medical care systems a long time ago. For this it has to thank the pharmaceutical laboratories, without which there wouldn't be allopathic medicine today. There is a strong interdependence between allopathic doctors and the magnates of the pharmaceutical industry – the former could not live without the latter and vice versa.

Here are the seven classes of drugs:

- 1) antibiotics;
- 2) anti-inflammatories and analgesics;
- 3) antihypertensives;
- 4) hypocholesterolemic;
- 5) antidepressants and tranquilizers;
- 6) anticarcinogens;
- 7) vaccines (bringing antigens into the body).

As you can see, all these drugs are “anti” something. Nothing is “pro”; except for tranquilizers, there is no drug to aim for health. They represent a practical application of Pasteur’s irrational theory. Instead of striving to preserve man’s physical and mental integrity by using natural means and prescribing trace elements, vitamins, minerals etc., recommending a balanced diet and advising a healthy lifestyle, allopathic medicine causes imbalances, forcing you to turn to allopathic doctors to prescribe one of the drugs out of the six classes mentioned above (six, as vaccines are prescribed for prevention).

When a disease occurs, it means an intruder has entered the body and this intruder must be hunted down. It sounds more like magic than real medical science. The allopathic doctor may very well be seen as an exorcist who, in order to drive evil out of a person, uses weird formulas and extremely aggressive techniques: powerful drugs, chemotherapy, radical surgical interventions and so on. Wanting to destroy evil they end up killing the patient.

Have faith – not in prescription drugs, but in the vital force

A holistic approach, on the other hand, is completely different. Holistic medicine is not about doctors and drugs. Holistic medicine postulates that in each and every patient there is a harmonizing intelligence (vital force) and this intelligence is the only one capable of knowing the cause of the illness, how long it will take to cure it, and in what way exactly the human body will regain balance. All a doctor can do is to recognize the symptoms of awakening this vital force while the remedies he prescribes are not to fight any effects but to amplify this force and reinstall health.

Once awoken, the vital force discharges the garbage (the illness) outside of the body and all the subject has to do is be patient and act in the same direction as the force. A mental disorder treated this way can manifest itself by symptoms in the lungs (for example, a case of autism treated allopathically can at first manifest itself as chronic bronchitis or severe asthma). If the patient treats the effects manifested in the lungs (in holistic terminology, this blocking of effects is called suppression), the disease can reappear at the mental level.

We must keep in mind that holism, compared to other approaches, is based on that immaterial and unknowable principle which, scientifically speaking (from modern science's point of view) is a purely subjective aspect. This approach also requires great courage, especially when considered modern materialistic thinking.

As a matter of fact, one needs to have faith in this force's inherent intelligence. The truth is, the human mind is only able to control a limited number of processes, while many other processes escape our conscious mind. For example, who consciously thinks about digestion taking place (besides while reading this phrase)? Or who is conscious of the way oxygen diffuses into the bloodstream from the lungs? All these processes are controlled by this vital force in a perfect way. Diseases occur when we do not allow this force to work properly but act against it.

This holistic approach asks for a transformation similar to launching into the void, since its fundamental principle is a purely subjective one – the force residing in each of us, a force that sustains us and always tries to recover our balance by any means.

We think we do and achieve great things, but actually it is this force that does it all, this force we are not even aware of. All we have to do is be humble enough to recognize its merits and let go of the control so it can act freely – this is real courage.

All great discoveries of mankind have been made due to this force. Mendeleev discovered the periodic table during a dream. Einstein discovered the theory of relativity daydreaming what it would be like to fly riding a beam of light. Edison said all his ideas came to him while in a state of light sleep. Tesla used to fall into reveries during which he envisioned all his discoveries. And the list goes on. The truth is all these discoveries were made by people who had the courage to unleash this force.

This force's intention is to make us conscious, but only if we allow it. We should understand that spirituality, as a whole, is based on perceiving and being aware of this force.

Health is closely connected to spiritual evolution

As a matter of fact, we have emphasized the holistic approach on health exactly because of its close connection to spirituality. But what is spirituality? What does being spiritual mean? (We ask this because health is strongly connected with the level of spiritual evolution; if all people understood that, mankind would take a huge step towards peace and harmony.)

If we were to judge things according to Christian thinking (all genuine traditions have the same ultimate aim), John's Gospel begins with the following: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God". Therefore, in the beginning there was nothing but the word, that is God, and from God (this Unique Principle) all manifestation came into being, because there was nothing but God. That means all manifestation is actually God manifested, the entire Universe being the celestial body of God. Thus God is not only a non manifested aspect, somewhere in the outside world, but everything manifested; matter is God too, as nothing but God existed in the beginning and nothing else exists now. All a human being has to do in order to be spiritual is be aware of this permanent presence of God.

For a holistic approach we have to state our goal properly, because our subconscious mind will lead us towards fulfilling that goal. A holistic approach is monistic, because there exists nothing but God. In fact, all authentic holistic medicines are also called UNICIST. This is really the greatest difference between allopathy and holism: allopathy asserts the will and knowledge egotistically and arbitrarily from the outside – the doctor knows best and prescribes a chemical to annihilate the existing disorder; holism states that any disturbance in the being is an effort of the “vital force” (Unique Principle) to reestablish balance. All the doctor has to do is observe the direction this “vital force” is leading towards and stimulate the system to follow that direction, as that is the right way towards balance and health.

In other words, holism is a “medicine” that believes and has faith in this Unique Principle (God), while allopathy does not even think about it.

The Austrian mystic Jakob Lorber (1800 – 1864), nicknamed “the scribe of God”, wrote over 25 books by listening to his inner voice, a work of which scientists say it exceeds the possibilities of the human mind. Lorber stated that all he wrote had been dictated by Jesus. When he was 40, he heard an inner voice telling him: "Take up your pen and write!". That was the voice of Jesus and everything Lorber wrote is advice Jesus gave to his readers. It is relevant how Lorber regards healing and health:

"Unfortunately, many patients are dying nowadays because of allopathic drugs, which cure an evil but replace it with a dozen other evils inside the afflicted body. Moreover, the new diseases become more and more virulent, therefore it is no wonder that life expectancy is rapidly declining, becoming shorter and shorter, which can only debilitate the descendants of those who are now parents. If this material decline goes on, it will lead to the total destruction of mankind. Therefore, out of compassion, I chose to enlighten a few people who created other means of healing, means that do not destroy the material body but rather act upon the soul. Thus, by awakening the power of the soul, these remedies can restore balance in the physical system. This healing method is called homeopathy (homeopathy is a holistic medicine – editor's note) or, as I like to call it, 'the art of healing with the soul'. This time the one who performs healing is the soul, activated by means of several infinitesimal agents that would be toxic if used in big doses. How can this happen? Simply, as in My nature there is nothing harmful”.

All the research we conduct and all the devices we create, aim at this holistic integration and intent to develop and amplify this force holism calls vital force. They are meant to awaken and stimulate this force and, somehow, the fact that they restore balance and perform healing comes as a natural consequence. All the instruments we devise amplify the natural tendencies of this vital force. Every indication regarding the healing effects comes from practice, from the experience of those who have used them. We do not say a certain device cures this or that disease, all we aim for is awakening the vital force. The effects produced depend largely on the mindset of the user. The fact is when this vital force awakens the effects are nothing but beneficial. For one thing, our devices produce a spiritual awakening in the persons using them and, by all means, the active principles of the healing effects are not physical, but spiritual influences.

Furthermore, these devices agree with any other kind of treatment (including allopathy – although allopathy can block the manifestation of many positive effects) and can be used together with any type of cure.

The effects of our devices are very much amplified if the user leads a healthy lifestyle and practices rightful thinking. You can access our site where you will find more information on this topic.

VITAL PROTECT in the context of the technological revolution

The development of new technologies has led to diseases unknown to previous generations. With the apparition of electrical power and electrical devices, our environment has become filled with a lot of unseen radiations which, in the long run, generate disastrous effects.

The experiments conducted by the American researcher Georges Lakhovsky showed that the chromosomes in the nucleus of every living cell have the shape of a tubular filament consisting in a dielectric matter, filled with a conductive substance, and that a chromosome could be compared to an oscillating circuit equipped with inductance, resistance and capacitance. In other words, the cells in the human body are in fact resonators (oscillating circuits) able to electrically vibrate under the most subtle electromagnetic influences: cosmic, atmospheric, terrestrial. Nevertheless, in our modern age, besides these natural waves there are a lot of electromagnetic radiations which have a disturbing influence upon the human body. We are so used to the most common radiation that we no longer consider them harmful (from the 50 Hz power supply radiations to the very high frequencies in the microwave range), but all interfere with the human energy field and disturb the activity of the living cells.

Concerns regarding the harmful influence these radiations have on living beings have existed ever since electrical current was first used. Still, since the effects these radiations have are not visible at first (they work slowly, but surely), more often than never, due to financial interests, these systems that are now commonplace have been promoted, although they have harmful effects on our wellbeing, health and even on our free will. What is worse is that, by using these systems, we have given up searching for solutions that could be harmoniously integrated in our natural environment without the negative effects.

How does our immune system react?

For instance, we are so used to the electrical network; we have wires inside of all the walls in our houses, so that it's hard to believe those could have harmful effects on our health and mind. The experiments conducted in the Marine Laboratory of Pensacola clearly demonstrated that the memory of the human being significantly decreases when subjected to 1 Gauss magnetic radiations (an extremely weak field) and to frequencies of 45 to 60 Hz. Memory is not only the ability of a person to recall and reproduce a text, but in a much more profound sense, memory consists of the deepest layers in a human being and is also responsible for our physical and mental health. When we say this we mean the most profound memory, the memory that scientists say resides in the physical body, and not the conscious memory which is only one part of this vast memory. There is a close connection between this memory and our state of health. This memory is in charge of keeping our cells functioning well, it maintains our body shape and helps our organism work at its best.

In the 1970s, Gheorghii Lozanov, a Bulgarian psychologist, conducted several experiments on curing several diseases by self-suggestion. During the curing process, Lozanov was surprised to see that as the state of health improved, memory became better and better. That gave him the idea that he could act directly by improving his patients' memory using accelerated learning techniques. He found out patients with cancer or other critical diseases healed by learning Japanese, German or English.

In Switzerland, they did a remarkable experiment on the harmful influence electromagnetic radiations have on the human body. They chose patients with various diseases, mainly imbalances of various rhythms, and kept them for several weeks in a mountain region, at a chalet with no electrical current. The lack of electrical radiation helped all patients recover completely in two weeks' time. Those results were still in effect, two years after the experiment.

Research on the harmfulness of extremely high frequency electromagnetic radiations showed these radiations generate hyperactivity, aging, stress and disrupt sleep cycles. According to the Russian biophysicist Khijenkov, the brain loses synchronicity in a few seconds after an electric field appears or disappears.

In 1973, doctors Z. Gordon and M. Tolgskaia, members of the Russian Academy of Science, demonstrated that weak microwave radiations alter nerve cells in the hypothalamus. After five months the cells secreting neurotransmitters completely atrophied. Neurotransmitters are substances generated by the nervous system which provide the transmission of information from the sense organs to the central nervous system and are vital for all living organisms, because without them the brain lacks stimuli. The organism cannot be deprived of sensory information as this generates an intense stress and anxiety.

Experiments carried out in Rockefeller laboratories showed that if you cut a rat's whiskers, which provide the rat 80% of its sensory information, the rat will go insane and die in less than two hours.

Other researchers, such as J. J. Noval, concluded that the EHF electromagnetic radiations block the production of neurotransmitters and weaken the activity of the cortex and immune system.

The American doctor Beeker carried out thorough studies and concluded that the many artificial electromagnetic fields in a modern city (radio and TV transmitters, high voltage supply lines, radiations from household appliances, microwaves, TV-sets, computers and so on) generate a kind of electronic noise which disturbs memory, destroys the immune system and cause maladies such as cancer or mental affections such as depression.

According to the studies conducted by Beeker, most subjects who committed suicide lived in an electromagnetic environment 22% higher than other people. Furthermore, when people are exposed to powerful electromagnetic fields the production of norepinephrine (a neurotransmitter) ceases, which then leads to depression. In areas with intense electromagnetic fields the number of accidents is 40% higher.

In 1984, Dr. Wendell Winter from Texas University declared that cancerous tumors develop 600 times faster when the subject is exposed to a 50 – 60 Hz electromagnetic field (the power supply frequency).

The influence of the power supply radiations on the behavior and functioning of the human body is so powerful that in a test where the subjects were required to choose a musical note, over 95% of the European subjects chose G sharp (about 50 Hz – power supply frequency in Europe) while most Americans chose a B (very close to the 60 Hz power supply lines in America).

It was not until 1964, in Geneva, that the World Health Organization officially declared that the exposure to EHF electrical fields could alter cellular, emotional and physiological behaviour. In addition, WHO concluded: "The results of studies carried out so far urge us to avoid any useless exposure to electromagnetic fields".

VITAL PROTECT amplifies the brain's resonant frequency

VITAL PROTECT is built on two principles that increase the immunity of living organisms to harmful radiations in the environment.

The first principle refers to an existing resonant frequency which connects us to the vitalizing and beneficial energies of the Earth. As we are living on a planet with a certain dimension of the cavity Earth – ionosphere, there is a resonant frequency through which we take in the vital energies of the Earth. This frequency was called Schumann resonance, after the name of the engineer who measured it for the first time (Winfried Otto Schumann). We do not know exactly what this frequency really is. Scientists claim that Schumann Resonance is the oscillating rhythm of the magnetic field of the Earth. What we know for sure is that human beings are programmed to live in this terrestrial field which in fact determines the biological clock of the living beings born on Earth. This becomes obvious when we measure the resonant frequency of the brain, since the brain has the innate tendency to adhere to Schumann resonance and reject the disturbing magnetic fields. The studies conducted by Patrick Flanagan, one of the leading researchers in this field, revealed that the whole geometry of the human body is built as submultiples of the Schumann resonance wavelength.

The experiments we have done show that if we place a generator set on Schumann frequency close to a human being, the brain becomes immune to harmful radiations in the environment. It is not about creating a protective shield around the human being, but simply about enhancing the connection between the subtle field of the human being and the vital field of the Earth.

Of late there have appeared all sorts of theories that say Schumann resonance has changed and this frequency is higher now. This is completely false. All the positive effects we have mentioned are generated only on this Schumann resonance, of 7.83 Hz. This is the frequency the brain tunes in on instinctively and the frequency which offers immunity to disturbing signals emitted close to a human body.

In the Swan Clinic of Tucson, USA, Dr. Sheldon Deal conducted an amazing experiment. Several subjects were subjected to a disturbing electromagnetic field. Significant changes appeared in their bioelectric signals (EEG, EKG, GSR etc.). Then, without their knowledge, a generator was introduced, set on Schumann frequency. In less than two minutes, all parameters being monitored returned to normal.

This resonant frequency is so important for living organisms that in its absence disease will occur shortly after. Such was the case when the first astronauts returned to Earth, they experienced serious health problems; the NASA researchers decided to put Schumann generators in all spaceships to create a healthy and natural electromagnetic environment.

The second principle is a radiating structure which generates a state of harmony and balance in the entire being. This structure generates an energetic vortex which balances energies along the spine and permanently purifies the subtle field of the human being. The simple presence next to a subject that has this radiant structure produces a balancing of one's vital energies and, as a result, the organism becomes immune to harmful radiations.

The radiant structure consists of a combination of noble metal spirals and a crystal network and is used as an antenna to amplify and transmit the effect of Schumann resonance to the entire bioelectric field of the human being.

VITAL PROTECT is recommended to all those who live in a city, in the vicinity of a radio station or a power supply line, to those who work with computers, cell phones or any kind of electrical appliances, as well as to every human being who wants to be healthy, to recover quickly after an illness or simply stay in shape and take advantage of every opportunity in life.

Effects

VITAL PROTECT protects against electromagnetic pollution, fights against sleeplessness, traveling sickness, migraines, muscular cramps and stress.

The tests done with VITAL PROTECT prove that it induces an ample state of relaxation and calmness. Experiences on animals have demonstrated they recover more quickly when they have such a device in their vicinity.

Studies on different cell cultures revealed many positive effects and no negative effects. In short; this device blocks potentially dangerous signals and amplifies the energetic field of the subject who wears it.

Among the effects of VITAL PROTECT we mention:

- eliminates problems related to jet lag;
- amplifies vitality;
- increases potency;
- fortifies the immune system;
- increases resistance to stress and fatigue;
- increases exercise capacity;
- amplifies attention (events that are not usually grasped are harmoniously and synergically integrated and the subject will resonate with the energies of success);
- generates a beneficial frequency at brain level;
- protects against harmful subtle influences (negative thoughts projected on the subject, black magic and so on);

- protects against radiations emitted by cell phones, TV screens, computers, microwave ovens, high voltage power supply lines, radio transmitters (due to a permanent connection with the telluric field, human cells are no longer receptive to harmful radiations);
- protects against geopathic stress (Hartmann radiations, harmful radiations caused by telluric anomalies etc.);
- increases resistance to phonic pollution;
- protects the vital field of the subject in crowded city areas or in environments with low subtle fields (hospitals, graveyards, places where accidents are frequent), houses with evil resonances.

What is most important is that VITAL PROTECT connects the human being to the vital energies of the Earth, integrating it in the universal harmony. This harmonization with the vibration frequency of our planet generates a rightful behavior in all situations the human being encounters. By integrating in this harmony human beings can have respect for all aspects of creation and are able to fulfill the mission for which they came into manifestation.

Advantages offered by our latest generation VITAL PROTECT

- 1) It ensures ACTIVE PROTECTION because it emits on the 7.83 Hz Schumann frequency which stimulates the organism to ignore disturbing signals in the environment.
- 2) PASSIVE PROTECTION – our new VITAL PROTECT is built with radionic spiral structures which function as transmitting antennas for the signal.
- 3) The operating frequency is very precise, offering real protection against electromagnetic radiations. This is made possible by a quartz oscillator in the device.
- 4) It is omnidirectional, in other words, the internal antenna system generates protection over a radius of 2.5 to 3 meters.
- 5) The battery lasts for over nine months.
- 6) Remarkable reliability – the device was designed to be used for a lifetime; all the user has to do is replace the battery when it's empty.
- 7) Our new VITAL PROTECT is much more ergonomical and attractive in shape.
- 8) The emitted signal is 30% more powerful.

Utilization

As you can see from the picture, the device is extremely simple. The current source is a CR2025 or CR2032 battery (a CR2032 battery will last at least 50% longer). The battery can be installed easily, by pressing the bolt of the tray with your fingernail and sliding it to the outside. Place the battery in the tray with the positive part (+) pointed to the back of the device and push back the tray till it clicks. The device consumes little energy so that the batteries can be used for more than eight months.

Press the latchkey on the right side and at the same time gently pull out the gliding compartment.

VITAL PROTECT – user manual

On the front right side of the device there is a red LED indicator that blinks at an interval of about ten seconds. The LED is there just to show that the device is working and the battery is charged. On startup, the LED blinks three times, after which the device enters normal operation. The LED will light up shortly every ten seconds. As long as the battery has a satisfactory energy level, the LED will light up intermittently. When the energy level drops to a point when you should replace the battery, the LED will light up twice every ten seconds. After that you have plenty of time to replace the battery. If you do not replace the battery when it reaches a critical point, the device may stop working. When this happens, the LED will light up three times every ten seconds. From then on, the device can stop at any moment, therefore you must replace the battery as soon as possible. The frequency, form and level of the signal emitted by the device do not depend on the battery level: they remain constant as long as the LED lights up. The moment the LED turns off, the device will have stopped working.

Even when its electronics is turned off, the device will still offer protection, due to the radionic system incorporated in its structure.

In order to obtain maximum effects, the device has to be kept as close to the body as possible, around your neck, in a pocket, attached to your belt or can be placed on the table beside you when you are working on the computer or under the bed when you are sleeping.

No adverse effects on the human body have been detected so far.

Along with the VITAL PROTECT device you will receive a CD with ten tunes corresponding with the fundamental tones for every planet in the Solar System, recorded by NASA scientists.

We have modulated the tones on the 7.83 Hz Schumann frequency, therefore they will be easily assimilated by the human body and they will amplify the right energies so that you resonate with that planet.

It is not necessarily music suited for meditation, but by simply listening to these tones your organism will vibrate on that specific frequency. These tunes are effective even if the volume is low and can be used at any time and in any circumstance.

List with tunes on the CD that comes with VITAL PROTECT:

The full package for the VITAL PROTECT device contains:

- the VITAL PROTECT device, battery included;
- CD with planetary tunes;
- user manual.

Testimonials

Mihai A., veterinary, Targoviste I bought VITAL PROTECT for myself and my wife, after hearing about the effects of electromagnetic radiation. Anyone should be concerned about the gravity of its consequences; we both work on the computer on a daily basis and speak a lot on our mobile phones. They are essential to work with and have for us. Therefore, we decided to look for a solution and as such we purchased the VITAL PROTECT device. I had had troubles with kidney stones for some time. To my great surprise, after only one week of using this device I started to eliminate the stones. It was something I hadn't expected. I got in touch with Mr. Birgaoanu, who explained to me that VITAL PROTECT has much more profound effects – and I finally understood why. Your device is great! I trust it completely!

Sorin B. G., pupil, Iasi My parents have convinced me I need protection against radiations emitted by mobile phones, because I cannot live without my cell phone and I talk quite a lot, every day. I had not told them that I had been experiencing earaches when talking for longer than ten minutes on my cell phone. They would probably have taken drastic measures and would have put an end to my long conversations with my friends and schoolmates. With their consent, I started searching the internet and found this device, VITAL PROTECT. I understood how it worked and I purchased it. I noticed that after two weeks I no longer had those earaches even when I talked on my cell phone for more than ten minutes. It felt great. Nevertheless, what made my parents decide to buy VITAL PROTECT devices for themselves was the fact that I was sleeping much better and felt more rested. We are very pleased with the devices and wear them everywhere we go. Congratulations for creating this device!

Ovidiu A. B., physician, Ramnicu-Valcea I am a physician and I know about the perturbations of the human body permanently exposed to electromagnetic radiations. No matter how hard I try to avoid them, I realize I am helpless when it comes to such a thing if I keep living in a city and accepting everything it involves. It is equally useless trying to find remedies for the symptoms if I do not come with solutions for what causes them. Therefore, together with my wife, who is also a physician, we started to obtain information on possible safety measures against radiations. We tried several alternatives, but with poor results. On a TV show we saw Mr. Birgaoanu talking about VITAL PROTECT. We were interested, so we purchased the device. Nevertheless, both being rather skeptical, we bought only one, for my wife. If she felt better after using it, we would buy another one. However, after about three months, my wife had nothing concrete to tell. Then, after a tooth extraction, she experienced no pains at all, although the dentist had told her to expect such pains. She was astonished. I admit I started to credit your device for that, still I wasn't convinced to buy one for myself. My wife was feeling better and better. I finally decided to purchase one more device when she told me with amazement: "My rheumatism is beginning to wear off – I have had no pains lately!". This is great. We are looking forward to seeing how MY health will improve. Thank you and good luck with everything you do!

Cornel B.V., Metrorex employee, Bucharest I have been working for the underground railway for seven years. I have acquired several occupational diseases. You cannot avoid them when having such a job. My hearing had weakened, I was in a permanent state of fatigue, I had depressions, headaches – and these are just a few of the health disorders I have experienced over the last seven years of work. I always thought all this was professional hazard and never tried to look for solutions. Nevertheless, my wife, after watching a TV show in which they were talking about VITAL PROTECT, managed to convince me to try this device. I started wearing it on a daily basis; at night I place it close to my bed. In two months' time my hearing had become much better and I had become livelier than I used to be. I kept on wearing the device. Meanwhile, my wife has bought one for herself. It's been six months since I started using it and I can tell you my headaches have completely vanished. I have experienced significant changes, so I have encouraged my work mates to follow my example and start using this device for themselves. As for my wife, she has noticed she has a better night sleep and no longer feels pain in her eyes when working on the computer. Congratulations, you have given people something that really works! Thank you so much!

Adina R., Bucharest During a workshop with the company I work for, I had taken the device with me and had placed it on a table nearby. One of the participants, who had felt angry for having been taken away from his job, had suddenly experienced a serious headache. He told me about it at our next meeting, seven days later. He admitted he had been judgemental, angry at me and had sent out negative thoughts. I told him the device had picked up his Psi attack and reacted accordingly. He realized why he had had that headache, asked for my forgiveness and in less than a minute all his discomfort was gone. Your device has strengthened my immune system; I haven't caught any cold and have no longer been sensitive to viruses.

Gabriel Valentin N. I bought VITAL PROTECT a month ago and I could feel its beneficial effects from the very first day I began using it (even during the very first seconds), I perceived how, through vibrations, certain regions where I had circulation problems became energized – my palms, feet – and, to my great surprise, I experienced balancing on the emotional level (some negative states disappeared at once or diminished in intensity and length).

Over the next weeks, this emotional protection was relatively constant. The “numbness” in certain body regions (left foot, left hip) I had been experiencing for six months, lost in intensity and amount. Besides, my early morning smoker’s cough diminished! Even my sleep was a bit better on the first night and, to my surprise, VITAL PROTECT also acts as an analgesic and performs a local balancing: when I put it on my chest, as an experiment, I realized I could breathe more easily in a matter of minutes and my heartbeat was steady. Staying in bed and watching TV, for example, my left hip would become numb, but when I put the device on it, the numbness went away in a few minutes – at first I also perceived cool vibrations along my leg, on two different occasions. Later I no longer felt them, but my hip has never become numb when I lie in bed. When placed on the head, VITAL PROTECT induces calmness and relaxation in a matter of minutes.

Dr. Simona C., Radboud University, Netherlands *Hello, Eugen!
Your device has reached its destination, at my mother's. Thank you!
She got it last week and has been using it intensely ever since. She is forever thankful to you. Whenever she experiences a discomfort in a region of her body, she places VITAL PROTECT on that spot and she feels better. She had had burning sensations in her stomach and treated them with Omeprazol (to diminish acidity). Now she no longer needs the pills and she feels great. Have a nice evening!*
Simona
